IN REMOVAL PROCEEDINGS

APPEAL AND MOTION

ON BEHALF OF RESPONDENT: Craig R. Shagin, Esquire

ON BEHALF OF DHS: Geraldine K. Richardson
Assistant Chief Counsel

APPLICATION: Cancellation of removal

This case was last before the Board on July 5, 2007, when we affirmed an Immigration Judge's December 16, 2005, decision, issued on January 31, 2006, denying the respondent's application for cancellation of removal. The Immigration Judge found that the respondent's conviction for simple assault on a child under 12 years of age, in violation of Pennsylvania Consolidated Statutes Annotated title 18, section 2701(b)(2), was a crime involving moral turpitude described under section 212(a)(2) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(2), prevented the respondent from establishing the 7 years of continuous residence in the United States necessary to qualify for cancellation. See sections 240A(a)(2) and 240A(d)(1) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. §§ 1229b(a)(2) and 1229b(d)(1).

On (b) (6) the United States Court of Appeals for the (b) (6) wherein this matter arises, granted the respondent's petition for review and remanded the case to the Board, finding that a violation of 18 Pa.C.S.A. § 2701(b)(2) is not categorically a crime involving moral turpitude ("CIMT"). More specifically, the Court found that an offense under the statute does not require scienter (i.e., knowledge of the victim's age) and there does not necessarily involve moral turpitude. In doing so, it explicitly rejected the analytical model for evaluating potential CIMTs outlined in the Attorney General's decision in Matter of Silva-Trevino, 24 I&N Dec. 687 (A.G. 2008) (allowing examination of facts outside the formal record of conviction, and consideration of whether there is a "realistic probability" that a statute may be applied to reach conduct that does not involve moral turpitude). The Court held that the proper method of analysis is to determine the minimum culpability required for conviction of a given statute, as set forth in its decision in Partyka v. Att'y Gen., 417 F.3d 408 (3d Cir. 2005).

The Department of Homeland Security has now filed a motion with the Board requesting a return to an Immigration Judge to reconsider the question of whether the respondent has been convicted of conduct constituting a CIMT in light of the (b) (6) order of remand. The respondent does not object to the motion. The motion will be granted. If the Immigration Judge finds that the respondent has not been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, he or she will then determine if the respondent is otherwise eligible for cancellation and deserving of a favorable exercise of discretion.

(b) (6)

Accordingly, the following orders will be entered.

ORDER: The motion to remand is granted.

FURTHER ORDER: The record is remanded to the Immigration Court for further proceedings consistent with the foregoing opinion.
